DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Applicant's election of claims 2 and 7 in the reply filed on January 16, 2007 is acknowledged. Because applicant did not distinctly and specifically point out the supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election has been treated as an election without traverse (MPEP § 818.03(a)).

Specification

The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities: The wording "silica" in page 4, lines 15 and 25; page 5, line 8 of instant specification is found inconsistent with symbol "Si" in page 6, line 8.

Appropriate correction is required.

For examination purpose, "Si" is used for search because it is disclosed in instant specification, page 6, Table as examples.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Art Unit: 1742

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claim 2 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over JP 61183426.

JP 61183426 discloses the features including the Cu based alloy composition (see abstract).

The Cu alloy contains "5.0 or less of one or more of Sb, Ag, Te, Si, Cr, Co, Fe, P, Sn, Mg, Zr, Al, Mn, La, Ce, Y, Be and Ni, and balance Cu." Therefore, when prior art compounds essentially "bracketing" the claimed compounds in structural similarity are all known, one of ordinary skill in the art would clearly be motivated to make those claimed compounds in searching for new products in the expectation that compounds similar in structure will have similar properties. In re Gyurik, 596 F.2d 1012, 1018, 201 USPQ 552, 557 (CCPA 1979); See In re May, 574 F.2d 1082, 1094, 197 USPQ 601,

Art Unit: 1742

611 (CCPA 1978) and In re Hoch, 57 CCPA 1292, 1296, 428 F.2d 1341, 1344, 166 USPQ 406, 409 (1970). As stated in In re Peterson, 315 F.3d 1325, 1329-30, 65 USPQ2d 1379, 1382 (Fed. Cir. 2003), that "A prima facie case of obviousness typically exists when the ranges of a claimed composition overlap the ranges disclosed in the prior art". Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to select any portion of range, including the claimed range, from the broader range disclosed in a prior art reference because the prior art reference finds that the prior art composition in the entire disclosed range has a suitable utility. Also see MPEP § 2131.03 and § 2123.

Claim 7 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. § 103 as being unpatentable over USP 6531003 to Ninomiya et al in view of JP 61183426.

Ninomiya discloses the features including the valve seat Cu based alloy composition (col. 2, lines 51-55 – valve seat and lines 12-18 – Cu based alloy composition, for example). Ninomiya further teaches to add rare earth metal (col. 4, lines 28-33) which is known in the art of cited references to include yttrium. Ninomiya discloses that rare earth metal content higher than 0.1 wt.% is no further advantage. But, higher rare earth content is not excluded. JP 61183426 discloses similar Cu based alloy composition with rare earth metal (such as La, Ce, Y) up to 5 wt.% in the same field of endeavor or the analogous metallurgical art. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art of the cited references at the time the invention was made to provide alloy of Ninomiya with higher rare earth metal content or use Cu based alloy as taught by JP 61183426 for high strength and heat resistant properties. Because the set forth benefits and function entail the motivation of one skilled in the art to make a claimed compound, in the expectation that compounds similar in structure will have similar properties.

Conclusion

Applicant is reminded that when amendment and/or revision is required, applicant should therefore specifically point out the support for any amendments made to the disclosure. See 37 C.F.R. § 1.121; 37 C.F.R. Part §41.37 (c)(1)(v); MPEP §714.02; and MPEP §2411.01(B).
